U.S. Submits New Proposals To UN Dealing With Middle East

England And France Blame Eisenhower

BULLETIN

GAZA (UP). — A section of the railroad leading to Israel was blown up Tuesday night, and telephone wires were cut, severing all communications between the strip and Israel.

LONDON (UP). — The British and French press loosed angry barrages against President Eisenhower today, blaming him personally for the present chaos in the Middle East.

It was the worst outburst of anti-Americanism since last October when the United States refused to back the Anglo-French invasion of the Suez and brought pressure to force a withdrawal.

This time, however, the anger and sarcasm was directed not against the United States or Americans in general but against Eisenhower personally.

The criticism came from papers of all political color — Laborite and Conservative in Britain and right-and-left-wing in Paris.

The new wave of criticism reopened the "Little Cold War" between Britain and the United States almost on eve of the Bermuda conference of Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

It was hoped the Bermuda conference would put an end to the ghost of Suez discord and chart joint action for the months ahead. But today the old wounds were reopened.

British criticism was led by the Conservative Daily Telegraph, which said Egypt's insistence on re-tnering the Gaza Strip was a "test of the President's good faith, and by the pro-Labor Daily Mirror.

Pro-Segregation Bills, Bribe Case Takes Limelight

AUSTIN (UP).—Five pro-segregation bills and continued hearings in the James E. Cox bribery investigation took the limelight in Austin today.

The five bills, designed in one way or another to cope with integration problems of school districts, are slated for a committee hearing tonight at 7:30. One of the five seeks to bar from public employment all members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The nine-member investigating committee hearing testimony on the Cox bribery charges was slated to meet today to consider reporting to the full House membership on its findings.

Money Measure Delayed.

Failure of the Senate to act on a resolution by the House suspending the joint rules of the House and Senate moved debate on a record $2 billion general appropriation bill for operation of state government to Thursday. Earlier, it had been hoped that the giant spending measure would be considered by the House today.

The pro-segregation bills will be aired before the House Committee on State Affairs, scheduled for 7:30 tonight.

Rep. Reagan Huffman of Marshall proposed that all employes of the state, school districts, cities and counties be required to submit a sworn statement on whether they belonged to the NAACP.

Under Huffman's bill, any public employe refusing to submit such a statement would be "summarily dismissed." Any public officers employing an NAACP member would be fined up to $200.

WASHINGTON (UP). — President Eisenhower revealed today that the United States has submitted to the United Nations new proposals for dealing with the Middle East situation.

WASHINGTON (UP). — President Eisenhower today announced that he expects to leave by Navy cruiser from Norfolk, Va., late Thursday for a leisurely cruise to Bermuda where he is due March 20.

The President, who has been suffering from a head cold, cough and inflammation of the left ear for some time, had hoped to go to Florida for a few days prior to his Bermuda conference next week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

But the President made it clear at his news conference that it is up to the U. N. to take the lead in making arrangements for negotiations aimed at settling problems of the troubled Middle East.

Mr. Eisenhower gave no details of the U. S. proposals which he said have been communicated to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold plans to leave for the Middle East Saturday.

The President said he had not heard of late news reports from Cairo to the effect that the U. N. and Egypt had agreed that Egypt will take over civil administration of the Gaza Strip.

A newsman asked the President whether he would like to see Egypt delay plans to take over civil administration of Gaza.

Without replying directly, the President said he would like to see arrangements made which the U. N. and Hammarsgjold believe would be most effective in bringing out negotiations to settle Middle Eastern problems.

The President said he talked this morning about the Middle Eastern situation with Acting Secretary of State Christian R. Herter.

Tornado Funnels Storms, Skip Across S. Texas

(By United Press)

Tornado funnels and thunderstorms skipped across South Texas again late Tuesday and heavy fog and low clouds blanketed the eastern two-thirds of the state today.

The storms were kicked off by the tail-end of a cold front that passed into the Gulf of Mexico.

A tornado hit near the Zunkerville community in Karnes county early Tuesday, then later in the afternoon several funnels were sighted in the area over the Helena community in the same county.

A thunderstorm dumped heavy rains southeast of San Antonio and medium-sized hailstones fell near San Marcos.

A blanket of fog and low clouds pushed across East and South Central Texas and parts of North Central Texas today. Heavy fog limited visibility sharply in a wide area of Central Texas from San Antonio to Waco.

Thundershowers fell across the coastal regions Tuesday night and more were forecast for all sections of the state except the western regions through Thursday.

Cooler temperatures were forecast for the northern half of Texas Thursday when winds are expected to shift to the north.

Rainfall reports overnight included half an inch at Victoria, .34 at Galveston and lesser amounts at Port Arthur, Laredo and San Antonio.

Up to four inches of rain fell Tuesday in Karnes county where the thunderstorms and tornado funnels were sighed.

Overnight lows ranged from 39 degrees at Dalhart to 62 at Corpus Christi.

Bleached Human Skull, Skeleton Found On Ranch

LAREDO (UP).—A bleached human skull and part of a skeleton started an investigation by FBI agents and Laredo detectives Tuesday. The skeleton was discovered on the Big O ranch east of Laredo.

The main clue to the victim's identity was a check for $20,000, apparently still negotiable, found in the open brush 30 feet from the skeleton. The check was payable to Abel Lefevre and drawn by the Williamsburgh Savings Bank against Chase Manhattan Bank, both in Brooklyn, N. Y. The check was dated Sept. 15, 1955.

A check of the accounts showed both were closed early in 1955. Justice of the Peace Manuel Cruz said the man had been dead at least 18 months.

Officials Inspect New Disposal Plant

Fix, Registered Professional Engineer, express confidence that within two months the biochemical (algae-oxydation) process of our sewerage disposal will be functioning at full efficiency.

For a newly constructed "Lagoon-System" plant it takes time and sunshine to propagate a sufficient growth of algae to perform an odor-free purification process, according to Mr. Fix.

Jim Bryant, Superintendent of Public Works, along with Winfred Taylor, County Health Officer, are working with Messrs. Ballard and Fix in trying to hasten the full-efficiency operation of the plant.

Soldier Killed When Hand GrenadeExplodes

FORT CARSON, Colo. (UP). — A Fort Worth, Tex., soldier taking basic training at Fort Carson froze Tuesday with a live hand grenade in his hand and was killed when it exploded.

The Army said the fragmentation-type grenade blew off the right hand and forearm of the trainee, Pvt. Robert H. Willhelm, 22.

Louis Robinson Jr. a training sergeant who was in the grenade pit with Willhelm, was critically wounded by the blast. He was at the base hospital with wounds in the left arm, face and eyes.

An Army spokesman said Willhelm had thrown several unloaded practice grenades over a concrete wall near the training pit. He was given the live grenade, but became so frightened that he froze and the grenade went off in his hand.

Willhelm joined the Army on Jan. 14 and was in the sixth of this eight weeks basic training.

The Army said the accident was the first major mishap since the here last fall.

Congress Told; "No Cuts In School Building"

WASHINGTON (UP). — President Eisenhower has informed Congress he wants no cuts in his multi-million-dollar school construction program, it was learned today.

This word was relayed to key House members consideraing the President's $1.3 billion school bill. It calls for spending $325 million a year for four years to build classrooms.

The President's stand knifed into an economy wave that broke on the White House doorstep today.

House Democrats, by a thumping 219 to 178 majority, pushed through a resolution late Tuesday declaring substantial cuts "must" be made in Mr. Eisenhower's $72 billion budget and calling on him to say where they can be made.

The resolution does not have to be acted on by the Senate and has no legal standing. Its effect is to put the House on record.

Despite Republican cries of "buck - passing" Democrats expected the President to come through with an answer soon.

He was to have an opportunity to comment at his news conference today.

But the Democrats did not plan to wait. The House took up an appropriation bill for the White House and several small federal agencies with Democrats set to ram through a 23 per cent slash—$4.9 million — recommended by the appropriations committee.

Many Of The 22 Candidates For The U.S. Senate Post Hit Campaign Trail For Votes

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

(By United Press)

Many of the 22 U.S. Senate candidates, with an eye on the April 2 special election less than three weeks away, campaigned throughout the state today in an effort to drum up last-minute votes.

State Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston rallied support Tuesday of 18 Aggies, in a joint letter to members of the Ex-Students Association of Texas A&M. Those endorsing Bracewell, himself an Aggie, included F. M. Law of Houston, Class of 1895 and 28 years on the A&M board of directors, and Lloyd Hale, co-captain of the Southwest Conference champion Aggie football team last fall.

Bracewell said he was emphasizing four main points in his campaigning: "We must find ways and means to trim our budget and to reduce the national debt," he said. He emphasized he was a "believer in principle above party, but would vote with Democrats to organize the Senate, if elected.

◆ ◆ ◆

Consistent Foreign Policy.

The state senator said he favored a strong, consistent foreign policy and opposed any extension of federal aid to local school districts.

Austin attorney James P. Hart moved into West Texas Tuesday, explaining his plan of decentralization of industry. He said the decentralization was "important to our security and economic welfare."

Hart proposed setting up tax laws that would permit small businesses to save money out of profit and use it for improvements and expansion.

In Wichita Falls, candidate John C. White addressed a hometown rally Tuesday evening, setting forth a "Ten Points For Texas" program. Economy and efficiency in the federal budget headed the 10 points, followed by curbs on inflation, limits on taxation, a realistic foreign policy, a federal-state water program, a sound farm program with 90 per cent parity, school improvements, benefits to Texas from federal taxation, industrial encouragement and integrity in office.

Dies Challenges Foes.

Candidate Martin Dies, in Waco, challenged all opponents to make a "clear statement of their stand on all major political and economic issues." Dies spoke at a workers' rally Tuesday night in Waco.

"I am prepared to tell my story at any time . . . my voting record in 18 years in Congress," Dies challenged.

In South Texas, Republican candidate Thad Hutcheson's campaigning carried him to Brownsville, Raymondville, McAllen, Harlingen and Weslaco.

Austin attorney Ralph Yarbrough spoke to former vice president John Nance Garner in Uvalde.

...EDITORIAL...

"I do not agree with a word you say, but I Will defend to the death your right to say it"—Will Durant.

THE PRESIDENT'S HEALTH

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S health is a matter of intense concern to 170 million Americans and many millions more beyond these shores. Right now it is not good, and every possible effort needs to be made to restore it without further painful and damaging delay.

He can't shake off the racking cough he developed on inauguration day, and it's wearing him down generally. And with Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles out of the country, he feels he can't leave the firing line to get badly needed rest.

The millions who have a deep personal affection for the President and who understand his importance to free mankind want him freed of further distress and danger — no matter what arrangements are required to achieve that end.

His doctors call the ailment tracheitis—inflammation of a section of the windpipe below the voice box. There appears some question as to the cause—whether virus or bacterial. Surely exhaustive tests are demanded to determine the fact.

Rest is deemed the only effective cure, and that seems to mean chiefly freedom from the necessity of constant talking—the inevitable burden of a busy executive.

Agreement doesn't exist on whether Mr. Eisenhower ought to get out of Washington into a warmer climate. Some say the dry Southwest wouldn't help. But if any real conviction is had that he should seek a sunny spot, he should go there without delay.

If that means bringing Nixon and Dulles home on the earliest flight available, let it be done. Africa and Australia will keep.

The President has managed the government from vacation points before, and it can be managed again. Every lawmaker or official having business with him can go to him wherever he is. Recent evidence that some lawmakers testily refused to fly to his Georgia headquarters but insisted he return to Washington hardly can sit well with the American people.

Mr. Eisenhower did not undertake a second term under false pretenses. He made plain he would need more relaxation, more care from his doctors, more time away from Washington. Knowing that, some 35 million Americans voted to send him to the White House for four more years.

An American president, the world's most overburdened man, should not have to apologize for trying to preserve his health. He should not have to jeopardize it to silence his critics.

The people Ike represents across the world want him in full health and vigor.

Three More China Hands Will Tell Their Stories

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Three more of the State Department's wartime China hands are to be investigated by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, says its chief counsel, Judge Robert Morris.

Two of these Foreign Service officers have been stationed in the Middle East, which is the new critical area in the U. S. effort to hold the line against Communism. And all three of them held important wartime military advisory posts.

John K. Emmerson will be the first to testify in Washington. Until recently he was counselor of embassy at Beirut, Lebanon. He has been at home in Colorado on leave, pending reassignment.

When Emmerson learned that he had been mentioned in earlier security subcommittee testimony by Rep. Walter Judd (R-Minn), he volunteered to come in and clear his record.

The other two wartime China service FSO's to be called in later are Robert C. Strong, now counselor of embassy at Damascus, Syria, and Raymond P. Ludden, now on duty in the State Department personnel office in Washington.

THE EMMERSON CASE is of interest principally because he told his State Department superiors several years ago that he was wrong on some of his wartime views about Chiua. Since then he has been given complete clearance and responsible jobs.

Now 49, Emmerson joined the State Department in 1935 after graduation from Georgetown Foreign Service School.

We was on wartime duty at U. S. Fleet commander in chief's headquarters in the Pacific. For six months after the end of the war he was adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo.

THE NAME OF ROBERT C. STRONG was first brought before the Senate Security subcommittee last November. Retired Adm. Charles Maynard Cooke, wartime chief of staff to Adm. Ernest J. King, told the committee that Strong was responsible for reports that Formosa would fall into Chinese Communist hands within two weeks after Chiang Kai-shek fled from the mainland in the fall of 1949.

Admiral Cooke declared that Strong, as U. S. charge d'affaires on Formosa at the time, "did not welcome" military intelligence officers from Pacific headquarters who were trying to build up Chiang Kai-shek forces to hold Formosa against the Reds. This is a new charge on State Department records. Strong has never been given opportunity to answer it publicly.

Now 43, Strong became an FSO in 1939.

RAY LUDDEN, 46, has been in Foreign Service since 1931. During the war he was on the staff of the commanding general, China-Burma-India theater. Later he was Army observer at Communist headquarters in Yenan, Chica. He was in Canton till Chiang Kai-shek departed in 1949.

Charges against Ludden are vague. Representative Ludd told the Senate committee only that he was associated with "the four Johns"—John Carter Vincent, John Patton Davies, John Stewart Service and John Emmerson in shaping U. S. China policy. The first three were allowed to resign from the State Department after lengthy security hearings and investigation. Ludden has never been given an opportunity to reply to Judd's statement.

Farm Leaders Are "Pioneering On A New Frontier"

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UP). — Local leaders in more than 50 low-in come farming counties are "pioneering on a new frontier" to wipe out rural poverty, the Agriculture Department said today.

Leaders in "pilot counties" in the Eisenhower administration's rural development program are "planning and directing balanced economic development in rural areas . . . whose resources have long been under - developed" the department said in a spescial progress report.

The rural development program was launched in 1955 after a study showing that 27 states had a "chronic and serious" problem of low-income farming. Little work was done until about six months ago, however, because special federal funds for the program were not available until last July, the department said.

◆ ◆ ◆

Locals Take Lead.

Today there are 49 countries and eight areas of two or more counties in 24 states enrolled as "pilot" areas in the rural development program. Officials have said the lessons learned in these areas will be used to expand the program in later years.

Federal and state agencies have an important share in the program. But in most pilot countries, local people take the lead through rural development committees, agriculture department officials said.

The pilot counties include about 111,000 farms, 81 per cent of them with sales under $2,500 a year. For some of these farmers, the road to better living lies in expanding farm operations, department experts said. For many others, however, the answer is help in finding off-farm jobs. What are the pilot counties doing?

◆ ◆ ◆

Examples Given.

The agriculture department offers these examples:

In Tippah county, Miss., a labor survey showed more than 500 farm women wanted off-far mjobs. Local people remodeled a building and a small clothing factory moved in to employ 250 people. Money raised by businessmen and the more prosperous farmers financed a milk receiving plant which will employe county workers and provide a new market for dairy farmers.

In Santa Fe county, N. M., the committee found a pressing need for receration facilities for rural youth, and went to work in that field.

In Perry county, Ind., the committee spurred an industralization drive that has brought four new industries to the county in recent months.

Officer Jack Emmerson was shot in both hands after he and another policeman answered a call to "quiet a family argument." Instead, the officers found Kenneth Gerald Neel, 28, and Herman Harold Neel, 24, arguing over a woman.

Kenneth Neel is believed to have fired a .38 caliber pistol which wounded Emmerson.

The hunt for the Neel brothers began Tuesday after they overpowered a jailer in Howard county jail at Big Spring. They were under indictment for car theft.

BASKETBALL

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

The 1957 NCAA basketball tournament was sticking mightly close to its tradition of "no Cinderella champion' 'today as top-ranked North Carolina paced the advance into Friday's second round.

There wasn't an upset to be found in six first-rounders played Tuesday night at three different sites, or in the other first-rounder played Monday night. Now the deck is cleared for these pairings in the four "regional" eliminations starting Firday night:

At Philadelphia: North Carolina 28-0 vs. Canisius 21-5; Syracuse 17-6 vs. Lafayette 22-3.

At Lexington, Ky.: Pittsburgh 16-9 vs. Kentucky 22-4; Notre Dame 19-7 vs. Michigan State 15-7.

At Dallas, Tex.: Oklahoma City 18-8 vs. St. Louis 19-7; Kansas 21-2 vs. SMU 21-3.

At Corvallis, Ore.: California 20-4 vs. Brigham Young 18-8; Idaho State 25-2 vs. San Francisco 18-6.

◆ ◆ ◆

Tar Heels Start Slow.

North Carolina overcame what Coach Frank McGuire called its "worst first half of the season" to down Yale, 90-74 Canisius took advantage of West Virginia's "jitters" for a 64-56 win; and Syracuse staged an amazing rally to beat Connecticut, 82-76, in first-rounders at New York's Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

At Columbus, Ohio, pint-sized Don Hennon's 31 points led Pittsburgh to an 86-85 win over Morehead and Notre Dame led all the way to down Miami of Ohio 89-77.

At Oklahoma City, Oklahoma City U. averaged a regular-season loss in whipping Loyola of New Orleans, 76-53. The Monday first-founder saw Idaho State beat Hardin-Simmons, 68-57 at Pocatello, Idaho.

North Carolina ran into an inspired team in Yale's Ivy League for 30 minutes. Then the taller Tar Heels pulled away from the worn-out Elis as All-American Lennie Rosenbluth took scoring honors with 27 points to 25 for Yale's Johnny Lee.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mountaineers Out-rebounded.

Here's how the other firstrounders shaped up:

At New York: Jittery West Virginia lost its game to Canisius in the first half when it sank only eight of 33 shots an dwas out rebounded 35-14. Canisius led 34-18 at half as West Virginia's All-American Hot Rod Hundley had scored only four points. West Virginia closed to 52-50 later, and Hundley wound up with 17, but Canisius had enough left for a strong finish. Syracuse trailed Connecticut, 65-55, with eight minutes left, but put on an all-court press and ran away from the badly-rattled U-Conn. Gary Clark had 26 points and Vinnie Cohen 23 to pace the Upstate New Yorkers.

At Columbus: Notre Dame zipped to a 12-4 lead in the opening minutes against Miami of Ohio and led tthe rest of the way. Tom Hawkins of the Irish and Wayne Embry of the Redskins had 25 points each. Five-nine Hennon of Pitt, in addition to scoring honors set up the game's key basket by John Laneve with 55 seconds remaining. Whistles were tooting all the time and 97 free throws were attempted by the two teams. Steve Hamilton led Morehead with 22 points.

At Oklahoma City: The home team, favored by 15, rushed to a quick 18-7 lead and romped home. Loyola settled for individual scoring honors as Pee Gaudin tallied 31, while six-10 Hubert Reed led Oklahoma City with 24.

NEW YORK (UP). — Sandy Saddler ignored the sightless spectre of Sam Langford today and declared firmly from a hospital bed that one of these days I'll regain the featherweight championship of the world."

One year ago, the 30-year-old Saddler was the unquestioned ruller of the featherweight division. Then, on his way to the gym, he was involved in a taxicab accident. He claims injuries he suffered were the cause of double vision and doctors told him that he would go blind if he fought any more.

But now, after an operation, Saddler ignores the dark glasses which hide his eyes and enthuses, "They tell me I've got a helluva chance to fight again."

◆ ◆ ◆

Explains His Injury.

"Sure, I know all about the guys who went blind from taking too much of a beating around the eyes he says as he frets through his recuperative period. "But this is different. This was from a blow on the side of the head, not from beating around the eyes."

Saddler claims the shock of the collision turned his right eye outward.

"I though my head had been busted wide open" he recalls.

"But I wasn't even cut. Then I had terrific headaches and I told the doctors that I was seeing double. He said that the eyes would clear up when the headaches did. But the head aches went away and the bad vision stayed with me."

Finally a neuro-surgeon, who had feared that the icicle of the prize ring was too unstable to accept the bad news, told Saddler that he might go blind if he ever fought any more.

"I cried like a baby" Sandy admits. "Fighting is all I've known since I was 17 years old. The whole bottom dropped out of my world."

◆ ◆ ◆

Uneasy During Recuperation.

So Sandy retired Jan. 22 after he had been stripped of his long-held featherweight title for not making a defense. In 160 bouts, he won 142 against 16 losses and two draws. Two weeks ago he underwent an operation and now he is counting the minutes and the hours of his recuperative period.

"I've never been in one place to long" he said of his hospital room. "When I get out of here I'm going to recuperate in the Merchant Marine, just so I cvan be on the move."

"Then" he said, "I'm going to come back and get back my featherweight championship. I don't know who wil lhave it, but it's still mine and I'm gonna get it."

From the way he spoke, you could go broke betting against him, too.

"Chet The Jet" Named "Player Of The Year"

NEW YORK (UP). — Columbia's Chet the Jet Forte, a little man who plays basketball in a big way, turned back the clock today by outspeeding the gangling giants of the college game to the 1957 United Press "Player of the Year" award.

The 5-foot-9 pre-medical student, as sound fundamentally but an even better scorer than the solid little men who dominated the early years of basketball, gained the the honor by a clear margin in a nationwide poll of 281 sportswriters and broadcasters.

Forte received 63 votes in widely-scattered balloing to win over Wilt The Stilt Chamberlain, brilliant seven-foot University of Kansas sophomore, who had 51 votes. Six-five Grady Wallace of South Carolina, the national scoring leader, was third with 35 votes.

The selection of Forte, Ivy League scoring champion, came at the end of a surprising campaign in which he fought right down to the wire with four physical giants for the national scoring championship. He finished with an average of 28.92 points per game and awaited the results of other scoring contenders in post-season tournaments to learn his final standing.

It also followed his selection to the United Press All-American team along with four players from seven to 15 inches taller than he.

On the court, Fore's specialty is a jump shot off "the wrong foot" a maneuver that confuses rivals. He also features speed, playmaking, and a two-handed long shot that keeps defendsrs from backing up to guard against his drive.

The top three were followed in thee balloting by Elgin Baylor of Seattle with 32 votes, Lennie Rosenbluth of North Carolina with 27, Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia with 24, and Gary Thompson of Indiana with 15.

Dressen Expresses Hope "Pitching Might Click"

By LEO H. PETERSEN

ORALENDO, Fla. (UP)—Chuck Dressen, anything but optimistic, expressed hope that his "pitching might click" so the Washington Senators will have "a fighting chance" to get out of the second division.

Far from the talkative manager he used to be when he was winning pennants in the other league with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Dressen said he was sure his club would "win more than 59 games like we did last year."

"The trouble is," he added, "the other clubs may win more, too. It is gonig to be a tough job to get into the American League's first division, but we have a chance to crack it."

◆ ◆ ◆

Finished Seventh.

Last year the Senators finished seventh, 38 games behind the Yankees.

Dressen explained that in Pedro Romos, Camilio Pascual and Ted Abernathy "I have three young pitchers who should be better.

"Chuck Stobbs should be even better than he was last year when he won 15 games — more than a quarter of the games we won all season."

Behind them, the Senators' pilot who is starting his third year with the club, is counting on two rookies and four others who have yet to establish themselves as hurlers of major league stature.

◆ ◆ ◆

May Make Shifts.

The rookies are Rene Nodarse, a 11-game winner with Fort Walton Beach last season, and Dick Hyde, up from Chattanooga where he won 15 games.

Others include Bob Chakales, Bunky Steward, Dean Stone and Bom Wiesler, none of whom had winning records with the Senators last season.

Outside of his questionable pitching, Dressen has other problems, too, he is trying to convert Pete Runnels, who mostly has been playing second and short, into a full-time first baseman, and even talked of switching Eddie Yost from third base to the outfield on a regular basis.

● SPORTRAIT

By MILTON RICHMAN

LAKELAND, Fla. (UP) — Jack Dittmer, Deroit's newly - acquired second baseman, maintains he "never really was given a chance with Milwaukee" but he aims to make the most of the one the Tigers are giving him now.

Dittmer came to Detroit in exchange for outfielder Jim King and an undisclosed player during the off - season after it became apparent he did not fit into the Braves' infield plans.

"I don't know what the rap against me was over in Milwaukee" said Dittmer, who had been with the Braves since 1952 and played regularly with them only one season in all that time.

"The only year they played me was 1953, when I got into 138 games I think it was. I hit .266 this year, drove in 63 runs and had nine homers.

That same year, Johnny Logan hit only seven points higher than me, drove in 10 more runs and had two more homers.

"Yet at the end of the season the Braves said 'We have to get another second baseman.' You'd think they'd go along with me another year, wouldn't you?"

Logan, of course, went on to remain a fixture at shortstop for the Braves.

With the Tigers, the 29-year-old Dittmer has a chance to play regularly although he isn't getting the job served up on any sliver platter.

He has to beat out Frank Bulling, a second baseman with considerable defensive finesse, and he may have to win the job, too, from Jim Finigan if the Tigers shift him from third.

"I figure I could hit .280 if I pvay regularly," Dittmer said. "I know this is a different league for me and I have to get used to the pitchers, but I honestly can't see how pitchers in the American League can be a great deal different from those in the National.

NEWS FROM HOLLYWOOD

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP). — In these days of high-priced living, it's sensational to discover actress Jeanne Baird who lives in Hollywood on the magnificent budget of $127.50 month.

Jeanne, a charming brunette, acts in such filmed TV dramas as "Private Secretary" "Wyatt Earp" and "Four - Star Playhouse." Once he was picked by TV Guide as one of the five most promising TV actresses, along with Peggy King and Vera Miles.

Fans might visualize Jeanne as living in a plushy apartment with gold - threaded sofas and a mink-filled closet. Many an actress lives that way but spends herself right out of show business into a job as a carhop or a one-way ticket back home.

When Jeanne moved here five years ago from Santa Barbara, Calif., she reasoned that a free-lance actress must have a low overhead to survive one of the world's toughest business. So, although recognition and more pobs are coming her way, she lives in an apartment the size of a streetcar with the rent of $28 a month.

Her apartment used to be a porch for the house next door. The living room barely holds two people and the bedroom isn't much larger The bathroom is so small the plumbing fixtures overlap each other.

. . But Jeanne tastefully decorated, and furnished the place for $150 including a studio coach, chairs, bookcase and chest. She painted the bathrom black and the old-fashioned icebox orange and papered the kitchen with menus borrowed from fancy movietown restaurants.

Her other monthly expenses: $20 for gas, etc. for her 1953 convertible you need a car to work in Hollywood; $45 for food she hunts specials; $5 to feed her long-haired orange cat, Rusty; $12 for insurance; $5 for utilities and $12.50 for a telephone message service in case she's not home when casting directors call her.

"I could economize more on food if I accepted dates to get free meals the way many actresses do. but that's hypocritical" adds Jeanne.

Jeanne even saves money — half of every paycheck.

"I've always been practical" she beams.

Shirtwaist Dress Is Pouring From Production Lines

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS (UP). — Dallas manufacturers expect to strike oil in the fashion industry this summer with the shirtwaist dress.

This classic of the American woman's wardrobe is pouring from production lines in a veritable gusher, and in nearly as many variations as this fabulous state has oil wells.

"The shirtwaist unquestionably is the number one silhouette" said a spokesman for Lorch Manufacturing Co., the oldest fashion firm in Dallas and one of the 26 manufacturers previewing their summer collections for visiting reporters from acoss the nation.

The shows are sponsored by the Dallas Fashion Center.

Basically, the shortwaist is a simple, casual style, with buttoned bodice and open throat. This spring, we women will be wearing it with laceruffles up the front this is called the sissy shirtwaist, with narrow skirt and kick pleat; or stack pleating.

The shirtwaist comes with full length, three - quarter length, above the elbow sleeves, or sleeveless. Its trim ranges from brass buttons, shown on a slim dress in beige silk linen from Designer Charles Dickey, to rhinestones featured in several lines. One sophisticated version of the shirtwaist is in champagne — colored silk, with organza chiffon tie at the throat. This one was from Jean Thomson, a former custom designer in Chicago, now producing her first collection for national distributin.

One of the hits of the shirtwaist group is made by Donovan Manufacturing, in pure white cotton, with an eyelet embroidered insert across the bodice. The firm boasted that the dress, one of the many "no irons" in the collections, had been through 25 test washings without need of pressing.

COMMENTARY

By CHARLES M. M'CANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka appears to be in serious trouble.

His independent Communist regime is under attack by Polish Red who oppose his breakaway from Soviet Russian domination, by Polish non-Communists and by Moscow propoganda organs.

At the same time, the negotitions in Washington for economic and financial aid which would strengthen him in his fight for national independence are bogging down.

It is too early to say that Gomulka's control of the Polish Communist party and government is in actual danger. But it could be before if the present situation continues.

◆ ◆ ◆

Two-way Difficulty.

It is increasingly evident that Gomulka is having difficulty in both maintaining his present independence and is avoiding an open break with the Russians.

One big reason is that Soviet leaders are fully aware now of the danger that any move toward independent Communism presents to their domination of Eastern Europe.

Another reason is that strong elements in Poland, both Communist and non-Communist, want Gomulka to take a even more independet attitude.

One result of the situation is that Gomulka and Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz have been compelled to restore to government jobs more of the Stalinist leaders who fought Gomulka's return to power last October during the surge of revolt in satellite countries.

But Gomulka and Cyrankiewicz are being attacked also by those polies who want him to go farther toward independence.

◆ ◆ ◆

Premier Denounced.

Cyrankiewicz was openly denounced in the Polish Parliament on Feb. 27 by Antoni Wojtysiak, a non-Communist who is also directr of the agricultural college at Bresiau — or Wroclaw, as the Poles call it — in Polish — occupied Eastern Germany.

Wojtysiak said that Cyrankiewicz was responsible for all the abuse of power by the Communists during Josef Stalin's dictatorship.

Some members angrily tried to shout Wojtysika down. Others applauded him. It was necessary to suspend the session for 10 minutes.

On March 1, eight leading editors and writers of Trybunu Ludu, the newspaper organ of the Polish Communist Party, resigned in protest against the policy of the ruling Politburo. These eight men resented what they regarded as a trend toward a new Stalinist policy.

◆ ◆ ◆

U. S. Invited Talks.

The Washington negotiations were nivited by the United States which thought it wise to strengthen Gomulka by relieving Poland's economic difficulties.

But the negotiations have run into a snag. For one thing, the so-called Battle Act passed by Congress rigidly restricts the giving of aid to Communist countries.

To get around this, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has ruled that Poland is not under Russian domination. That ruling permits some aid. But it also has been found that the government has disposed of most of the farm surpluses which were available to foreign countries.

Gomulka almost certainly will get some help from the United States. It will be nowhere near the $300 million he seeks in economic and financial aid, however.

Director Outlines Mistakes Made In Filing Tax Returns

"F-F-N-M, F-F-N-M-." No, this isn't a new cigarette commercial.

According to Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, "F-F-N-M-" stands for the four common mistakes made by the American taxpayer in filing his 1956 income tax return. (It's due and payable on or before April 15, you know.)

The four errors most common and costly to Uncle Sam as well as to his nephews and nieces are: (1) Failure to print or write legibly, (20 Forgetting to sign returns (3) Not reporting all income, and (4) Mistakes in arithmetic.

"On the matter of forgetting to sign a return, more than 5,000 were returned for signature in this district last year," Mr. Campbell said.

If you, as a taxpayer, are troubled with "F-F-N-M," Revenue suggests a closer reading of the instructions accompanying your mailed tax forms, plus earlier filing. IRS has the figures to prove that taxpayers who wait until the last minute are more apt to make costly mistakes.

Bow And Arrow Hunter Tells Story Of Elephant Kill

William Negley, a 42-year-old Texas oil millionaire, wagered $1,000 against $10,000 put up by William K. Carpenter of Wilmington, Del., that he could kill an elephant with a bow and arrow. He got two, not one, and the Witte Museum in San Antonio, of which he is a director will be $10,000 richer. In the following dispatch Negley tells how it was done.

By WILLIAM NEGLEY
As Told To United Press

NAIROBI, Kenya (UP)—Well, I'm back from safari feeling happy, fit and mighty proud of myself.

It's not every man who can chalk up an elephant shot with a bow and arrow, and I managed two.

I'm going home with 20-pound tusks from the first bull and 35 pound tusks from the second.

Careful planning of the safari and the help of that great hunter Eric Rundgren made the success possible.

The safari took seven days en route to the Congo and we made our first major camp by the shores of Lake Albert.

Our group included Rundgren, freelance Photographer Alan Rettinger, myself and 11 bearers.

We got hunting permits and set off on the first day's hunt.

We were immediately successful and set off on the first day's hunt.

We were immediately successful and spotted herds of hundreds of elephants.

◆ ◆ ◆

Stalking Difficult.

We picked out one bull.

We began stalking him.

The wind was very brisk. It made stalking difficult. It took an hour before the shot could be made.

I had steel-tipped arrows 29 inches long.

Rundgren stood by with a rifle in case I missed.

Ten yards range.

It was the most thrilling moment when I pulled the bow and set the arrow going. A swish, then a thud.

It hit home deep. I just couldn't miss a vital spot.

The arrow penetrated the elephant almost completely. Just the feathers were showing. It hit the lungs. The bull took only a few minutes to die. But it ploughed on a bit, then fell into a shallow cut.

◆ ◆ ◆

Has Last Run.

We followed. Then it decided to have a last run and got up heavily. We followed as it lumbered and I dropped it with a second arrow in the heart.

The second elephant was bigger. My first arrow hit a rib, but the second did the job.

Besides the tusks, I'm bringing back to the Witte Museum in San Antonio — where I'm director of natural history — two male lions we shot later with rifles. And specimens of uganda reed buck.

I'll never regret the bet I made with my pal in Texas that I couldn't shoot an elephant with a bow and arrow.

It's made my trip worthwhile. Have I had enough excitement? No, sir.

I haven't given up the idea of trying my hand with bow and arrow against buffalo — and even rhino and hippo.

So I may be back here before long.

Salem is the capital of Oregon.

Critical Drought Conditions Are Somewhat Eased

AUSTIN (UP). — Critical drought conditions in Texas were somewhere eased in Texas due to general rains throughout the state during February the State Board of Water Engineers repots.

In its monthly report, the board noted that although moisture was general throughout the state, water levels in Uvalde-area wells reached an all-time low for the sixth consecutive month.

Soil moisture was greatly improved, but due to the slow rainfall, there was no appreciable runoff, the report said.

Selected observation wells in the Winter Garden, El Paso, Atascosa and San Antonio areas also showed a decline, but the Uvalde area was the worst with its continuing decrease during the last half year.

Travis couuty, Alief and Pasadena area has somewhat higher water levels, but still noted new lows for February.

Major water reservoirs increased their potential useable capacity of storage from 43 per cent in January to 46 per cent by the end of February, the report said. Dam B reservoir on the Neches River showed the best increase by doubling its storage, while Possum Kingdom Reservoir on the Brazos added 200,000 acre-feet of water.

ETSTC At Commerce Offers Training In Professional Fields

Dropping of the word "teachers" from East Texas State Teachers College at Commerce is favored by a majority of E. T. students, the college's student council says.

A poll taken last week showed a five-to-one majority in favor of dropping the word "teacher" from the title. The chief reason given by students was that the word "teachers" does not indicate that the college gives training in many other professional fields.

About half of the recent graduates have gone into industry or other non-teaching fields, estimates the college placement bureau.

Teamsters' Union Boss Offers To Appear At Probe

WASHINGTON (UP). — Dave Beck, boss of the giant Teamsters Union, shed his seeming reluctance today and offered to appear promptly before the Senate rackets investigators.

But Beck, the target of charges concerning his $160,000 home in Seattle and his personal finances, hinted he might take refuge in the Fifth Amendment, if so advised by his lawyer.

The Teamsters president, who flew to Europe while the rackets committee was trying to reach him, told a news conference at his plush Seattle lakeside home Tuesday night that the transaction involving his home was "clean cut" and "above board."

◆ ◆ ◆

To Call DA.

Beck said he would be "ready to go" whenever the committee wants him after a "routine" visit to his doctor today. The committee has indicated it may put Beck on the stand after finishing its current hearings on Portland, Ore., vice, probably by the end of this week.

The hearings continued today with Clyde C. Crosby, Teamster organizer for Oregon, recalled to the stand.

Later in the day the committee expected to call up William M. Langley, district attorney of Multnomah County, Ore., in which Portland is located.

Langley was slated to face questions based on tape recordings purporting to show him in cahoots with gambler cronies of Teamster Union officials in Portland.

◆ ◆ ◆

Hear Tape Recordings.

The committee was expected to play a portion of the tape recordings in the Senate caucus room where its hearings are creating daily sensations. But some of the recordings were called too "dirty" and will be played only to senators privately—if at all.

Prairie Fire Whipped By Wind BlacksRangeland

BY UNITED PRESS

A prairie fire whipped by strong winds blackened parched Nebraska rangeland Tuesday, threatening the ranching community of Lakeside before it was brought under control.

Meanwhile, huge clouds of dust swept over the bone-dry Central and Southern Plains, darkening the skies and reducing visibility.

All women and children were rushed from Lakeside as the flames advanced on the community of 75 persons. But firefighters managed to stop forward progress of the blaze after an eight-hour battle and saved the town.

Meanwhile, an extensive storm North of the Great Lakes in Canada dumped snow along the Northern border from Minnesota to upper Michigan. It spawned high winds from the lakes into the Northeast, with gusts occasionally reaching 50 miles per hour.

Strong southerly winds — often reaching 60 miles per hour — produced considerable blowing dust through the plains states. The dirt-laden clouds swirled across the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, and Nebraska Eastward to the Mississippi Valley into Western Kentucky and Tennessee.

Lansing is the capital of Michigan.

Salvation Army Shows Increase In Relief Service

Governor Price Daniel received a special report showing the large increase in welfare and relief services carried out by the Texas Division of the Salvation Army during 1956 in ceremonies on Monday (March 11) at 11:30 a.m. in the Governor's office in Austin.

The report was presented by Lt. Colonel John A. Morrison, Texas divisional commander. He was accompanied by Dan Eddy, state service unit director of Dallas.

Col. Morrison reported to the Governor that the Salvation Army served more than 250,000 persons in Texas during 1956. The report showed a sizable increase in transient and family relief service and a sudden surge of requests for Christmas relief which were met throughout the state. It also highlighted the greatly increased emphasis placed on youth work by the Salvation Army which became possible with the opening last spring of the new and greatly enlarged Salvation Army Camp Hoblitzelle near Midlothian.

Col. Morrison cited the tremendous business and industrial growth of Texas during 1956 which brought thousands of new families into this area to fill newly-created jobs. Transient welfare service increased 18% over 1955, while family welfare was up 25% over the preceding year.

Five Companies Investigated By Senate Group

AUSTIN (UP). — An independent investigator, hired by the Senate comittee investigating the ICT Insurance Co., of Dallas, is checking the solvency of at least five other compainies and his findings may be revealed within a few days.

"We are trying to make an investigation independent of every state agency" said Sen. Frank Owen III of El Paso, a member of the committee. Owen would not reveal the investigator's identity, nor would he say how many companies were under investigation or what information the committee received to cause it to look askance at the companies.

The committee, meanwhile, expects to have before it today the ICT audit, or at least part of it. Owen said the group would check widespread reports that two former state officials are involved in the books.

◆ ◆ ◆

Five Companies.

A source close to the committee said it is "aware of the possibility the reports that former state officials are involved may have been spread to take the heat off other companies under scrutiny.

"You can be sure the investigations are not going to be sidetracked by anything like that," the source said. He indicated the outside investigator is looking into at least five companies, and the results may be aired within the week.

Owen said Tuesday night the committee had "heard these reports" of former state officials being involved with the ICT "but we don't have any facts so far. We are trying to get some and I hope the audit that we should get tomorrow will reveal whether there was a payoff."

"But we are going to get the facts no matter who is involved", he said.

False Bomb Threats Disrupt Airlines Flight

NEW YORK (UP). — False bomb threats disrupted flights of four airlines Tuesday at airports throughout the East.

The phony bomb warnings caused delays in flights or Trans-World, American, United and Delta airlines planes while they were searched in New York, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., and Jackson, Miss.

Six airborne TWA planes made emergency landings at airports as far south as Baltimore and as far west as Detroit to permit searches.

No bombs were found on any of the planes.

The excitement began when an anonymous caller, sounding like a teen-age boy, told a TWA reservation clerk: "There's a bomb on your plane. You had better get if off."

The airline notified authorities at LaGuardia and Idlewild airports in New York, and Newark Airport in New Jersey to hold planes for searching.

Tuesday night, Shirley Mayfield, 25, a reservation agent for American Airlines in Philadelphia, received a telephoned threat from a woman who said she had a "grudge" against airplanes because her father had been struck by one.

The woman said she had planted 12 sticks of dynamite on an American Airlines plane. She said they were set to explode at midnight.

"Which plane is for you to find out," she told Miss Mayfield.

A United Airlines spokesman said a bomb warning also had been received from either a woman or a child caller.

Coast Guard Cutter Rescues Nine Seamen

BOSTON (UP).—A Coast Guard cutter Tuesday night rescued nine frostbitten seamen from a two-day ordeal in a waterlogged open boat 175 miles at sea.

The men, crew members of the 151-foot coastal freighter Patricia Sweeney of Yarmouth, N. S. drifted helplessly in near freezing temperatures for 44 hours. Their coal cargo shifted and capsized the vessel during a howling gale Sunday night.

They were unable to give a distress signal and barely had time to scramble into their lifeboat before the ship "went down like a stone."

Their open lifeboat, though well stocked with supplies, was partially filled with water from a rain and sleet storm and heavy seas.

The men, all from Nova Scotia on Newfoundland, were picked up by the Coast Guard cutter Castle rock just after dusk. The cutter had left its ocean weather station to tow the disabled Boston fishing trawler Jane B. home when it was spotted by the men.

First Mate Fred Rodenheiser, 56, of Lunenber, N. S. said by radio that two of the men, forced to leave the sinking ship barefoot, were suffering from badly frostbitten feet and the Coast Guard said another of the rescued seamen had a fractured ankle. The Coast Guard said all of the men would be hospitalized for treatment of exposure and frostbite on their arrival at Boston.

Officials Warn Egypt Tough Talk May Bring Crisis

WASHINGTON (UP).— Administration officials warned today Egypt's new tough talk will bring about a grave new crisis if the words are put into actions.

President Eisenhower and his associates hope that Egypt will agree to a "cooling off" period without pressing its public positions on Gaza and Suez. But officials studying Cairo's statements were apprehensive that new trouble looms ahead.

Mr. Eisenhower was almost certain at his news conference this morning to discuss his hopes for a more moderate Egyptian attitude.

A new air of crisis developed here after only a few days of optimism that peak trouble may have been passed in the Middle East.

Israel made an urgent appeal to the United States Tuesday night not to minimize the seriousness of Egypt's announcement that it intends to resume control of the Gaza Strip.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban broke off a Florida vacation to hurry here today for talks with State Department officials.

The White House said Mr. Eisenhower is keeping in close touch on the Middle Eastern situation with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who is in Australia.

The President will discuss Middle Eastern problems Thursday with the National Security Council.

No final plans have been made for dealing with a new crisis. The immediate attitude here was to wait and see whether Egypt will carry out its public statements on taking over administration of Gaza and barring Israeli ships from the Suez Canal.

BAD BARGAIN

JARRELL, Tex. (UP). — Cafe employe Wilbur Castleberry told police he was swindled Monday into giving a man a $25 loan for a five-cent ring. Castleberry said the man told him he needed the money because his truck had broken down. The man, who said the ring was valued at $1,000, snatched the money as Castleberry was counting it — tossed him the ring — and vanished.
